

MIP, Not a Game, Not a Ticket

A message from our Dean of Students

Story by: Larry Lindsey, Dean of Students

To All Students:

Three years ago, I wrote this article for "The Entrepreneur". Even though I have had no reports of Northwood students receiving MIPs so far this year, I thought the article was worth re-running and I think it would be wise for any student under 21 years old to read very carefully.

Thank you and have a great school year.

Larry Lindsey
Dean of Students

Originally printed fall 2006:

Recently a Northwood student hosted a house party, 28 Northwood students were issued "MIPs" Minor in Possession citations. The "talk" around campus the following week was that it was in some respects "unfair treatment by the city police and in another respect kind of "funny or cool". I assure you it's none of the above. The majority of our students are under the impression that you get a "MIP", you pay the fine, that's the end of it. Wrong! That's the beginning of it. In April of 2004, Governor Jennifer Granholm signed Public Act No. 63 which modified the previous Minor in Possession Law to allow authorities to impose more severe penalties on the habitual offender that chooses to consume alcohol prior to attaining the legal age of 21.

FIRST VIOLATION

For the first violation, a fine of not more than $100.00 may be ordered by the court, and the minor may be ordered to participate in substance abuse treatment and rehabilitation. Further, the minor may be ordered to perform community service and to undergo substance abuse screening and assessment at his or her own expense. The possible punishment for repeat offenses, as created by the amended statute, increases significantly as violation accumulate.

SECOND VIOLATION

For a second violation of the MIP statute, the minor may be imprisoned for not more than 30 days, and then only if certain conditions are met. For example, the minor must have violated an order of probation, failed to successfully complete a treatment program, failed screening, failed to participate in (continued on page 2)

Where at the Wood?

Each edition The Entrepreneur will post a picture of an object located on campus. The first student to correctly identify the location of the object will win a prize provided by The Entrepreneur. Please be as descriptive as possible with your responses. Submit answers to entrepreneur@northwood.edu. Winners will be posted in the following edition.

Correctly identify the name and location of this object.

community service as ordered, or failed to pay the fine from the previous conviction. The convicted minor may also be required to pay an additional fine of $200.00. This is in addition to the possibility of imprisonment, the minor may be ordered to perform community service, and also undergo further substance abuse screening and assessment at his or her own expense. Further, the Secretary of State will suspend the student's driver's license for 90 days upon a second or subsequent conviction.

THIRD VIOLATION

For a third violation of the MIP statute, the sanctions are similar to those for a second violation. The difference is that a minor may be imprisoned for up to 60 days as opposed to 30. The same conditions apply for imposing the jail time, i.e. probation violations, failures to abide by a previous sentence. Also, the potential fine for a third violation increases to $500.00 from $200.00 for a second violation.

The purpose of this article is to get your attention. A Minor in Possession citation is NOT A TICKET! It is a criminal misdemeanor. You will have a record. It can and often does have far reaching effects on your future employment. It does not go away. Job applications, Graduate School applications, Law School applications, acceptance into Law Enforcement Academies, acceptance into the Armed Forces, all can be and often are negatively effected by MIP's.

On campus it can affect your opportunities to chair specialty shows such as Auto Show, Style Show and Stafford Dinner. And, just as importantly, it can affect your good reputation.

Think about your future. Remember it's not unfair treatment, the police are simply doing their job, it's not funny, it's not cool, and it doesn't go away.

FOOTBALL

Coach Mike Sullivan and the Northwood University football team are off to prove the critics wrong this season with their wins against Northern Michigan and Hillsdale on September 5 & 12, respectively.

The tide changed many times throughout the NMU game, but Northwood prevailed with a game-winning 41-yard field goal from Pat Sijan with 14 seconds left on the clock. Northwood won 23-21, with Josh Rauser and O'Neil Thomas both recording touchdowns for the Timberwolves.

Northwood won another nail biter against Hillsdale with a late fourth quarter touchdown from Antoine Carr with 1:07 left on the clock to seal the victory for the Timberwolves.

SOCCER

The Northwood University soccer team is off to a great start. As of press time they are 3-1-1 this season. After posting huge victories over St. Joseph's, Urbana, and Olivet, they are ready for the rest of the season. With a young lineup, comprising of only three seniors and three juniors, it looks to be a year for underclassmen to step up and prove that they want to be on the field. With promising formation, combination plays, and everyone playing their true position, it looks to be a promising year for the soccer team. Go to the games and show your pack pride!

OUR STUDENT LIFE

Advice from our SGA President

Story by: Kofi Opoku, Student Government Association President

2009-10 Student Government Association E-Board

Welcome back to yet another great school year! The Student Government Association and the Executive Board are indeed excited to have you as a part of the Timberwolf family. We want you to be involved with the wonderful opportunities provided on our campus; and we are happy to work together for you and with you.

It is time for us to take responsibility and pride in our campus and university. This is the time for us to bring to the table what we are great at doing as individuals, in order to help build and increase student interests, participation and intellectual growth on our campus.

I would advise that we make it a habit to read the many resources such as the student handbook, school magazines, omniquest and the wall street journal provided to us by the university. These resources entail all the necessary information and opportunities that we have on our campus such as our registered student organizations and EXCEL opportunities, as well as the outcomes that this university values. Moreover, many of our questions pertaining to this university will be answered. Let us also bear in our minds and hearts, the outcomes of this university in all our endeavors. This will prepare us to be great competent leaders in the business world upon our completion of our education.

The Student Leadership Center is a great resource to address any concerns, ideas or questions that you may have pertaining to student life; as well as resources that will help you to discover your potential. The Executive Board of S.G.A. has office hours at the Student Leadership Center to ensure that we meet your needs and concerns.

I believe this is going to be a great year with great opportunities and experiences. Be a part of it and make a difference! Good luck with the school year!

If there are any concerns, ideas or questions pertaining to student life that you would like us to know, please send an email to sullivan@northwood.edu or opokuk@northwood.edu or pernicone@northwood.edu. You can also come to our office hours at the following times:

Mondays: 1:00pm-3:50pm

Tuesdays: 12:00pm-1:00pm, 2:00pm-4:00pm

Wednesdays: 12:00pm-2:00pm, 4:00pm-5:00pm

Thursday: 12:00pm-2:00pm

Fridays: 12:00pm-2:00pm

Dr. Richard Ebeling joined the economics faculty this fall. He is the author of many articles and books including "Political Economy, Public Policy, and Monetary Economics: Ludwig von Mises and the Austrian Tradition", available in December 2009. He is also finishing an intellectual biography of Ludwig von Mises that will be published in 2010. Richard Ebeling received his Ph.D. in Economics from Middlesex University in London, England, his M.A. in Economics from Rutgers University, and his B.A. in Economics from California State University, Sacramento.

Changes in Academic Administration

Dr. Lance Lewis became the academic dean of Northwood University's Michigan Campus in August. John Grether, J.D., who was academic dean for three years, accepted a faculty position with Northwood's Richard DeVos Graduate School of Management. Dr. Dan Koop Liechty will be the dean of international programs.

The Fact of the Matter

Story by: Laura Adams, Associate Editor

Laura Adams, Associate Editor

It is with great pleasure that I welcome everyone back to Northwood University. I hope that all of you had a wonderful, fun-filled summer vacation! The last three months have provided many of us with relaxation, part-time jobs, and endless nights out with friends. It is now time to get back into the swing of things!

With this being said, what better way to get acclimated to the school year than by picking up the latest omniquest selection? Rich Devos' Ten Powerful Phrases for Positive People is a quick read, with a lot of insight. A chapter that particularly stood out was chapter three: "you can do it". Devos claims that the most important thing any young person should know is, "you need to develop a philosophy of 'You can do it'. Whatever you want to do, you can do it". I couldn't agree more.

The fact of the matter is: many of us and/or our peers are currently facing hardships. The downturn in the economy has created a domino effect that includes loss of incomes, an increase in foreclosures, added stress, etc. In the face of situations such as these, it is crucial that we understand that we can do anything we set our minds to, and it is also equally important that we remind others that they can as well. With negative, outside elements constantly weighting on our minds it is understandably easy to become pessimists and "Debbie-downers". I encourage you, like Devos, to have a positive attitude. A positive attitude blooms into positive actions, and helps create a positive atmosphere. Starting the school year with optimism and determination will bring nothing but great successes!

Devos reiterated his idea of a positive attitude with the phrase "try or cry". You can choose to take risks, or you can choose to be conquered by fear. We all chose Northwood University, therefore we must hold the desire to "discover the leader" in ourselves. The fact of the matter number two is: leaders try, they take risks, and are undoubtedly positive people who create other "can-do" people. Never let a little fear stop you from trying. And if you're still hesitant, remember this: "Even if you [try] and fail, you have the strength and the courage to know how far you did get so that you're going to try again, or do it differently next time, or take on a new job with greater confidence" (Devos, Page 49). So, as we start this new school year I encourage all of us to be the person that Devos is describing, because it is those people who will innovate and turn things around!

Campus Safety

By: Jason Vonreichbauer

Building Safety:

In the event of inclement weather such as a tornado warning or severe thunderstorm warning, move to one of the designated severe weather shelters. Severe weather or emergency shelters are identified by an emergency shelter sign which have been placed in campus buildings. If you find yourself in a building without a sign look for a basement or interior room without windows; avoid large open rooms or areas such as gymnasiums. Furthermore, remain in a safe area until the warning or danger has passed.

Code Blue Phones:

There are 8 code blue phones located throughout campus. These phones are for emergency situations and are activated by pressing the red emergency button on the front of the pedestal. By pressing the red button, security dispatch is immediately notified by phone and the location is displayed on the caller id. The dispatcher can communicate with the caller and subsequently dispatch security officers. In the event the caller cannot talk to the dispatcher security officers will still be dispatched to the location. In addition, a blue rotating light atop the pedestal is illuminated to assist responding security officers or emergency personnel locate the caller.

Furthermore, 5 of the 8 emergency pedestals can be used as a public address system to notify people of a possible emergency situation.

Aggressive Driving Hotline (A-Line)

Safe driving was identified as a major safety concern on campus. In response, the Aggressive Driving Hotline, or A-Line, was created as an outlet to report aggressive or dangerous driving. People calling the hotline will be directed to a voice mail box and prompted to leave the pertinent information relating to the driving incident, vehicle and driver. The mail box will be monitored by Student Services personnel and reported incidents investigated. The A-Line hotline number is 837-4819.

What I Remember about Michael Jackson

Story by: Danielle Culberson, Staff Writer

Danielle Culberson, Staff Writer

Prodigy. King of Pop. Freak. Pedophile. (Shocked silence). Icon. Larger than Life. The One and only true King of Pop. These words are a brief summary of how much of the world viewed Michael Jackson from his childhood to the “Thriller” days to his downfall into scandal to his shocking death on June 25, 2009 and the aftermath of that. Sure, MJ was the GREATEST entertainer of all time, but why did it take for him to die in order for us to appreciate how awesome he was?

My first memories of Michael Jackson aren't really memories at all--he and his music have always been there since I was an infant. My parents were also huge MJ fans. In the basement of our home sat a record player and a stack of old vinyl albums. The first time I ever saw the “Thriller” album was when I was about 9 years old and sifting through the old records and I came across the picture on Thriller's album cover of Michael sitting on the floor holding a tiger. For some reason, I was fascinated with it and looked at every time I went in our basement. As I got older, I pretty much forgot about the album. A couple of years of ago, our basement was remodeled and my parents misplaced their vinyl albums across the basement. In the age of internet downloads and iPods, who cared?

On June 25, 2009 around 5:30 pm, as I was sending off a project to my internship, I decided to go by CNN.com and to my surprise the Breaking News was that Michael Jackson was in a coma. “Yeah, right,” I said, taking anything reported by the news agency at face value. I then went into the living room to judge the seriousness of the situation for myself. I'll never forget what happened next: Wolf Blitzer reported that the LA Times reported that Michael Jackson had died. I sat there in stunned silence. Was this real? I flipped through MSNBC, my city's local news, and Fox News. All broadcasts were the same. Many feelings flooded me and I continued to watch shell shocked and saddened.

Later that night, I went into out basement in order to look for the “Thriller” album as a way to pay tribute to the fallen icon. I searched and searched and searched---but couldn't find it. Twenty minutes of literally ripping the basement apart, I finally found the vinyl hidden in an Earth, Wind, and Fire album case. But where was the “Thriller” album cover? My sister would later find it in her room on the top shelf. The exhaustive search and rescue mission made me realize a very important point: me, along with most of the world took MJ at face value and always assumed he would be around. His music was played but he wasn't appreciated like he should have been. He was hounded and criticized by fans and paparazzi alike. While the outpour of remembrance has been great, everyone should have gave Michael the same respect in life as we have in death---and I should have safely tucked away the “Thriller” album when I had the chance.

STUDY TIP #1 from the TLRC---

Study hard and do well on your FIRST Math test.

Why is this important?

1. It is probably largely review material and may be the easiest test of the entire term.
2. It is an excellent opportunity to earn an A. Remember that it will probably count the same as the more difficult tests later on and might help pull up a lower score if you have trouble on a subsequent test.
3. A high score indicates that you understand the basic skills needed and will be able to succeed in this course. You won't have to go back and relearn anything.
4. It will build your confidence for future tests.
5. Your instructor will assume you're smart and remember you (in a good way).

By Mrs. Lorie Ermak, Director of the Timberwolf Learning Resource Center, with ideas adapted from the Math Study Skills Workbook: Your Guide to Reducing Test Anxiety and Improving Study Strategies, by Paul D. Nolting, 2004.

Ashleigh Grogan

Ashleigh Grogan is junior this year at Northwood, majoring in Hotel Restaurant Management. When asked who her favorite faculty members were there was no hesitation, Professors: Spaeth, Hughes, and Phillips. Ashleigh is a member of NUHE, the hospitality association on campus and is excited to be a part of more on-campus activities through the NUHE. One of the on-campus activities she is excited for is this year's Auto Show. Last year she was the Co-Captain for Kia and worked at the HRM grill, which was set up in the campus' mall walk. For this year's Auto Show she hopes to have the opportunity to work at all three food stands and is looking for a great Auto Show team to join. She is also considering going to the Texas campus during winter term to get out of the Midland snow. She says that she is eager for the opportunity to experience a new atmosphere and visit some of her family members in Texas. If you see Ashleigh around on campus, be sure to say “Hello”.

BEYOND THE BOOKS

The Frankfurt Auto Show

Story by: Steve VanArsdale, TAG President

The Automotive Group (TAG) is a Northwood University club for automotive/automotive after-market students dedicated to enhancing students' knowledge of current industry events. We will begin to write an article in each issue of the Entrepreneur, related to the auto industry. We will also tell about upcoming events and give summaries of previous events.

The Frankfurt Auto Show also known as, The International Motor Show is held from September 15, 2009- September 27, 2009. This is the world's largest Auto Show held in Frankfurt, Germany, biannually. There are literally hundreds of new vehicle redesigns and invaluable concepts at this show. Some of the most interesting production cars include the 2010 Bentley Mulsanne, 2010 Ferrari 458 Italia and 2010 Lamborghini Reventón Roadster.

2010 Bentley Mulsanne- This is the replacement for the Arnage, a car which dates back decades in many respects. Gone are the mid-century ergonomics and design of the Arnage, replaced by a modern cabin with chrome-accented dials and modern switchgear. The blue Mulsanne shown is in one of the 126 available exterior colors. The Mulsanne generates 505 horsepower and 752lb-ft of torque from a gasoline-powered 6.75-liter twin-turbo V8. It has the world's most powerful OEM stereo amp – 2,200 watts.

2010 Ferrari 458 Italia- This is the most important model for Ferrari so let's hope it's a home run. The new 458 is the first completely new production mid-engine Ferrari in a decade. The 458 has a more muscular direct-injected 4.5L V-8 producing 562 horsepower at a screaming 9000 rpm and 398 pound-feet of torque at 6000 rpm. That's 79-horse and 55-pound-foot improvement over the F430 it replaces. Officials say their 458 Italia can blast to 62 mph in "under 3.4 seconds" before hitting a 202-mph-plus top speed. The 458 will reportedly hit Ferrari dealerships coming sometime in 2010.

2010 Lamborghini Reventón Roadster- The Reventón was originally only available in the garden variety coupe (20 made). Lamborghini will produce less than 20 of the roadsters. If you could even get your hands on one it will set you back more than 2 million dollars. With that price and 661hp Lamborghini means business. Interesting point: You have a one in five-hundred million chance of being killed by a meteor, and a one in seven-hundred million chance of owning a Reventón Roadster.

If you would like to join TAG please come to our next biweekly meeting held October 6, 2009 at 8:00 pm in Sloan room 110. Please email TAG@northwood.edu with any questions or feedback.
